Volume 5 lists the 'specials' of another exciting ten years. The stamp issues have increased in number, with Post & Go stamps having their own programme of issues, though with low numbers of 'specials', which are in addition to the annual dozen or so 'regular' stamp issues. The result is that the percentage of 'specials' associated with stamp issue days has increased even further, as shown in the table below. For a couple of years the percentage reached 75%, though with the Olympic Year of 2012, with lots of Olympic Torch Relay postmarks for example, the percentage dropped to 49%. Here are the overall statistics for our five volumes.

* Main listing only, excluding 'S' numbers and other 'first days'.

[^] Excludes 'see also' entries, long-running items still in use.

For thematic collectors there are plenty of interesting topics – Sport, including an Ashes victory and an Andy Murray Wimbledon win, royalty stamp issues including the Queen's Jubilee, and plenty of trains, aircraft, animals and birds, to mention just a few. Collectors are invited to scan the lists to find postmarks of their chosen theme.

We are now able to offer all five volumes, giving collectors access to the whole listing of Special Event Handstamps from 1851 to 2013.

BRITISH POSTMARK SOCIETY

Registered as a charity No 1102748

The British Postmark Society caters for collectors of all types of postal markings but particularly those of the 20th/21st centuries. Included in the Society's aims are education and the dissemination of information, and an illustrated Quarterly Journal is produced, mainly from contributions of articles and news items from members. Additionally there is an annual sale and a postal auction and, for UK members, there is a good library, regular London meetings and three different circulating Exchange Packets.

1 Introduction

PURPOSE

A sponsor may pay a fee to Royal Mail to provide a special event postmark, to the sponsor's design, to mark an event, occasion or anniversary, with exclusions for religious, political and controversial messages. Collectors can send in their envelopes or postcards for stamping, or purchase special envelopes designed and produced by the sponsor. Royal Mail themselves provide a number of special covers, including some with coins or medals enclosed, on a similar basis. Occasionally these postmarks fulfil a postal need for items posted at real post office counters. The Bath & West Show in 2004 and the Olympic/Paralympic Village 2012 were the only two such events in the period covered by this volume. Neither was announced beforehand as not regarded as 'specials' by Royal Mail but we do regard them as such since they bore special inscriptions – both are illustrated later in this Introduction under 'Types of Postmarks and Abbreviations Used'

The word 'event' requires some interpretation. Many modern specials have no event other than a stamp issue to which they are associated. Related place-names and even names of roads or streets thought to be, or sound, relevant to the stamp issue have become the 'in thing'. More on this below!

TERMINOLOGY

In this book our chief interest is to record details of the postmarks. Collectors can submit their items for stamping, and one definition is to use the word envelope (often specially printed by the sponsor) before the item is stamped, then with a stamp affixed and a postmark applied it is termed a cover. When used on a stamp issue day with the new stamps affixed (even just one of them) it becomes a first day cover.

THEMATIC COLLECTING

It is arguable that there are too many 'specials' for collectors to acquire examples of all of them. That, of course, is up to the individual collector! Collecting of specific topics, or 'thematic collecting' is easier to accept. One of our earlier volumes was criticised by a reviewer for not including a thematic index. Items can be included in more than one list (eg. a church flower festival could be indexed under religion and also under flowers). We would in turn criticise the reviewer for failing to understand the complexity of indexes and the considerable space such an index would take. Therefore we would recommend collectors examine the listings for the topics that appeal to them.

DATES OF USE

The dates of the postmark are left entirely to the sponsor. Thus if a cricket match may take 5 days (or perhaps finish early) or other sporting events or exhibitions may last several days, the sponsor may wish to use the postmark on only one day, possibly the first. The fee is slightly higher for a handstamp with a changeable date, for multiple dates, but for postmarks applied by the modern Pad canceller a different postmark 'face' is required for each date instead.

INSCRIPTIONS AND TOWNS/COUNTIES

Sometimes the postmark includes a wrong address, and we have ‘agonised’ over some of these, since once produced the postmark cannot be changed. In the listings in this book we can only try to clarify, by the means of notes in brackets, what we feel the postmark inscription should have been, and possibly corrected if given the opportunity to discuss each case with the sponsor before use. Sponsors seem to have once referred to the same source that we use, namely Postal Addresses and Index to Postcode Directories, last published in the 1980s. We continue to use this volume, but sponsors appear no longer to do so, as though they wish to keep up with modern fashionable practices rather than correct ones. They seem to have turned to Wikipedia, Google and other on-line sources, which do not seem to respect the ‘old values’ as they tell the location story ‘as they see it’ and not according to the existing addressing conventions.

The first point is the inclusion of a post town. Every address and postmark has a post town, and up to a few years ago no handstamp sponsor would dream of omitting it (with exceptions of course!). More recently, with the requirement for the inclusion of a post town not having changed, standards seem to have slipped. We don’t know why! Royal Mail, on the other hand, appear not to check these details for correctness, though they have claimed that they do so. An example is Staplehurst Kent in a postmark of 19 June 2012, which refers to a locomotive named Charles Dickens. But with at least one ‘special’ correctly inscribed Staplehurst Tonbridge Kent on a previous occasion, why in 2012 should Tonbridge be omitted?

A further example is Cheesden, used for the Wallace and Grommit stamp issue in 2010 – apparently cheese is a major feature in their stories. There appears to be no such village and is certainly not listed in the reference we have mentioned (and neither therefore is its post town!). In broad terms it seems to be a valley in the Heywood area of Greater Manchester, and we have accordingly added Heywood Lancashire in brackets (see entry 17680). Also the strange abbreviation of ‘Gt’ used for ‘Greater Manchester’ was strange, as ‘Greater Manchester’ was never adopted as a postal address back in the 1970s when it was formed. Since counties have largely been dropped by Royal Mail (all they require is a post town and a postcode) any county can be included free of restraint. Having said that, we have stuck to our unchanged principles and have shown the correct address regardless!

Most postal historians ‘cringe’ at the unswerving desire to use in modern ‘specials’ village or place-names that ‘sound’ right – this includes Cheesden as shown above. Even for Royal Family anniversaries sponsors cannot resist finding street names such as Queen Avenue, Queens Park etc to use in their postmarks, even though such locations have no real connection with the royal event in question. Unfortunately Royal Mail started this habit with the Golden Jubilee issue of 1997, when Golden Square Aberdeen was chosen as the ‘relevant First Day of Issue’ location. Indeed the whole (in our view) erroneous situation of place-names that ‘sound right’ goes back to the first use of Bethlehem in 1966 – even though Royal Mail have never claimed Christ was born in South Wales!

We have tried to adhere to the county changes that took place in 1996, when a number of the 1970s counties (eg. Humberside, Cleveland and Dyfed) were scrapped, leaving some towns as ‘unitary authorities’, effectively with no county at all. Our wish is to maintain correct postal addresses, not local authority areas, but in some cases this leaves us in a quandary, as Royal Mail have sidestepped the issue of counties. For example, we do not feel Colwyn Bay should be listed as Colwyn Bay Conwy, Conwy being the modern ‘local authority area’, as opposed to the old county of Clwyd. In Scotland, Royal Mail decided in the 1970s not to adopt the new counties, so we consider, for example, inclusion of Strathclyde in a ‘special’ as being incorrect. So for that matter is ‘Scotland’.

Correct addressing practice has always recommended that other irrelevancies (like 'near' or 'nr') should be excluded from addresses for reasons of clarity – including Scotland.

ANNOUNCING SPECIAL EVENT POSTMARKS

Royal Mail's British Postmark Bulletin is available to collectors, having done valiant work since its introduction in 1971. In spite of guarantees that advance notice will be given for all special postmarks (and that postmarks will be refused if they do not conform to the relevant advance notice period) failures to do so have continued throughout the period covered by this book. The most annoying examples of these are postmarks used on stamp issue days when, although time is allowed for collectors to send in their items for backdating, the special Royal Mail envelopes are withdrawn from sale after the issue date, thus requiring collectors to stock unnecessary envelopes purely in case late announcements occur. In theory, postmark backdating is not permitted, but Royal Mail normally feels obliged to offer reposting facilities (see next section) when the announcement is late. This helpful facility has in practice replaced any 'guarantee' that might have once applied.

REPOSTING FACILITY

Collectors are permitted to send in their own covers and postcards for stamping with special postmarks, a facility much appreciated by them. Since 1990 the task has been concentrated on to half a dozen or so Special Handstamp Centres (previously Head Postmasters countrywide), though these offices forever seem to be swamped with work. Collectors have experienced irritating delays in the return of their items as a result.

The good news is that (a) items can be sent in 'on the day', thus first day covers can be prepared and submitted on the issue date of the new stamps, and (b) while postage needs to be paid when sending these covers in, outer protective envelopes can be provided for their return, with no additional postage required on these 'return envelopes'.

From 1 March 1994 'dual dating' was permitted by Royal Mail (but not by the Forces postal service, see below), allowing a second postmark but no more to be added to the existing postmark on a card or envelope – though not two of the same date.

Some Special Handstamp Centres have been subject to relocation. In June 2004 the South East SHC at Slough ended and work was taken over by the SHC at Mount Pleasant London EC1, reducing the overall number to five. Then in 2012 Scotland & N Ireland SHC closed at Rutherglen and was relocated to Royal Mail Tallents House, Edinburgh, and the number remaining at five.

BRITISH FORCES POSTAL SERVICE

Most of our references are to Royal Mail, but the 'BFPS' is not to be forgotten. 'Specials' are provided by the BFPS, usually with a sequential BFPS number and no location, this being for security reasons. A reposting facility is provided, similar to that of the Special Handstamp Centres already mentioned. However, the operation of the service has changed dramatically in the period of this book, initially with a move from Inglis Barracks, Mill Hill, London NW7 to RAF Northolt in Middlesex. Then, from 2012, a new not-for-profit charitable organisation entitled British Forces Philatelic Service was established, operating under licence from the BFPO and run by retired BFPO officers from their base in Scotland. The resulting smaller operation continues to provide excellent facilities for collectors.

UNAUTHORISED POSTMARKS

Unfortunately, even though the system is fairly clear, the sponsor paying Royal Mail for the right to use a postmark etc, some prefer to avoid the 'niceties' and provide their own 'marks'. The disturbing aspect of this practice is that they resemble official postmarks, with the inexperienced collector maybe not realising what they are. Also, we have to say how unfair this is to the genuine sponsor who has paid correctly for the use of his postmarks, while others expect to achieve similar results 'on the cheap'. It is unfortunate that there seems to be no way of stamping out this malpractice, though it has to be said, it is not on a scale to warrant expensive action being taken. As we write these notes in 2013 there is still one producer of these bogus covers offering them for sale on Ebay. So, if you discover a 2012-13 'special postmark' which is not listed in this book, it may well be one of these.

PHILATELIC HANDSTAMPS

Handstamp that are used on a long-term basis are provided by Royal Mail and are made available under the reposting facility at the Special Handstamp Centres. These are either for tourist resorts (eg. Giant's Causeway) or carry inscriptions and landmarks of major towns and cities throughout the country. These are listed in Chapter 6 with 'Ph' prefixes.

Quite different are a pair of postmarks offered at the House of Commons post office, and listed in Chapter 6 of Volume 4 as Ph.180/180A. These were available from 1997, the rules differing as the Houses of Parliament post office operates as a separate entity from Royal Mail. The different attributes of these postmarks are that they are (a) applied at the counter and not at the London Special Handstamp Centre (b) applied only to the special souvenir envelopes on sale there (originally £1.80 each) (c) not confined to first class mail, and (d) only available on covers posted 'in person', there being no reposting facility. Fortunately, even though visitors are subject to a security check, the House of Commons post office is accessible to the public.

COLOURS

From time to time 'specials' are produced and applied in a colour of ink other than black, the sponsor paying an additional fee for this as an exclusive facility. On these occasions the colour is used only on the sponsor's own covers, whereas black is used for the postmark applied to collectors' covers. Royal Mail have used the facility themselves on several occasions on special covers in different colours, one in brown for a locomotive-related 'special'.

SOUVENIR COVERS AND COIN COVERS

Where appropriate we make reference to the issue of Royal Mail commemorative covers and coin covers (postcards seem to have fallen at the wayside, airletters too) but where we use the words 'in conjunction with' the postmark is not confined exclusively for use on these covers.

CACHETS

These are usually rubber handstamps struck on postal items away from the stamps, such as at stamp exhibitions. These are beyond the scope of this catalogue, unless applied by Royal Mail. In some instances cachets have been known to cancel stamps, particularly at exhibitions, but there have been no reports of such in recent years.

STAMP ISSUE DAYS

The 'first day cover market' remains the driving force behind 'specials', an increasing percentage of the number of specials continuing to be used on stamp issue days. Having said that, with general cut-backs of recent times there have been decreasing numbers both on stamp issue days and on others, as shown in our Foreword. Following the style of previous volumes, we have featured each stamp issue day with a box to highlight the postmarks used on that day. However, we make no claim as to the relevance of the postmarks used, some of which are clearly not related to the stamp issue in question, leaving that for the reader to decide! These arrangements do not apply to the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man, as it would unnecessarily complicate the listings.

'FIRST DAY OF ISSUE' POSTMARKS

Things have been a lot simpler since the rationalisation of First Day postmarks in 1999, and they have continued largely unchanged. These postmarks are applied only to covers bearing new stamps on their day of issue, such covers being still posted by members of the collecting public in 'First Day' boxes at various post offices, who forward them for stamping at the Special Handstamp Centres mentioned above.

Royal Mail arranges two pictorial postmarks for each issue, one at Tallents House in Edinburgh (previously known as the Philatelic Bureau and still referred to as such by collectors) and one at an alternative town, though both are available from Tallents House as ready stamped and postmarked covers under its standing order service. The Tallents House postmarks are NOT included in the main listing as each would appear as 'Royal Mail Tallents House Edinburgh', though each has a pictorial element relevant to the stamp issue. The 'alternative town' postmark is a location chosen by Royal Mail as being relevant in some way to the subject, though first day covers do not travel to that town, the same 'alternative town' postmark being available at each of the Special Handstamp Centres countrywide. These are listed as 'S' numbers ('S' for 'special office') and are shown for each stamp issue, the numbers continuing from Twenty Years of First Day Postmarks (covering 1963-1983) to volumes 3 and 4 (1984-1993) and (1994- 2003) of this series of publications.

Illustrated here is a Tallents House postmark and the 'alternative town' postmark from the same stamp issue.

OPERATIONAL POSTMARKS

Operational circular datestamps are outside the scope of this book, since they carry no special inscriptions, but they are noted here as a number of them were made available for collectors under the reposting facility. The first example shown here is from Mount Pleasant (London), an 'old fashioned' steel datestamp, using a conventional ink pad and applied skilfully on request by the staff at the London SHC. Similarly some rubber packet handstamps of a few Midland towns were available from the Midland SHC from 2001, but the first group of these – Loughborough, Stoke on Trent (see illustration) and West Bromwich ended on 31 December 2008. These were followed by Lichfield, Matlock and Melton Mowbray on 31 December 2009, and the last group – Bromsgrove, Derby, Walsall and Wolverhampton – ended 31 December 2010.

A series of philatelic datestamps was introduced in 1996 'for collectors who require an operational type datestamp'. These resemble SID handstamps but they are specially inscribed 'SHC (Special Handstamp Centre) and they are listed in chapter 6 of volume 4 as Ph.123-137; the 'operational type' wording is arguably misleading. Illustrated here is a Heathrow example.

TYPES OF POSTMARKS AND ABBREVIATIONS USED

The s/c specimen shown below was the last occasion on which there was a post office at the Royal Bath and West Show, thus it is the only use of a s/c type postmark in this volume. Similarly, the only uses of SIDs were at the Olympic Village post offices at Stratford, London E20 in 2012 (plus an unusual one operated by the Isle of Man Post Office at the 2007 World Scout Jamboree), the post office at the annual Wimbledon Tennis Championships having ended in 2003.

Sp.R 'Special rubber' self-inking handstamp, this being the most common form of applying special postmarks for 30 years or so from the 1960s to the 1990s. Largely replaced by Pc. (see below) in the 1990s, though frequently a Sp.R was also used as a back-up, thus both are listed where known to have been used. However, handstamps requiring a changeable date continue to be Sp.R and these are of two designs, either with the date in the centre, though now very uncommon, or at the foot, as shown on the two examples below. Most of the 'philatelic handstamps' are of the latter style.

Sp.R
(two examples)

HSm (not illustrated) 'High speed machine' at Tallents House, used primarily for first day covers and others, such as coin covers: in use since 1985 for standing order first day covers, including the 'special'/'S' first day postmarks.

HSm postmarks are difficult to distinguish from Sw (see volume 2) since grey in colour: later these were blacker and then difficult to distinguish from Pc. (see below). Envelope handling and automated processes for affixing stamps, both adhesive and self-adhesive, at high speeds, were all developed alongside the stamp cancelling process.

Pc. (not illustrated) 'Pad canceller' was a machine introduced in 1992 and, as will be seen in the main listings, superseded Sp.R and Sw (Sw not shown above, see volume 2), with a high quality black image, permitting postmarks of fine detail to be executed; also better at giving clear postmark impressions over the edges of stamps.

VALUATIONS

We have not attempted to put valuations on modern 'specials'. Valuations are largely dictated by the stamp(s) used and the special postcard or envelope involved. Thus a first day cover bearing a full set of stamps on a dealer's specially designed envelope may be worth £10-30, whereas the same postmark on a single stamp and a plain white envelope might carry a valuation of only 50p.

LATER YEARS AND ADDITIONAL REPORTS

We will be continuing with our Special Events listings for 2014 onwards in the Quarterly Journal of the British Postmark Society. Moreover, the compilers of this volume are always interested in hearing of unannounced or unauthorised postmarks, extended dates of use or unannounced Royal Mail cachets. Please write to the address shown on page 1.

On 30 July a diamond-shaped handstamp was used inscribed 'London Stansted Airport Building 170 30 July 1992 Royal Mail': it was used on a Royal Mail cover commemorating a London Stansted to Edinburgh Air Service Official Opening. Although used on a Royal Mail envelope, this postmark is thought to be 'a local initiative' and used probably only on covers presented to passengers on the flight. The postmark was not announced and was unlikely to have been used postally, thus it is not given a numbered entry in these listings.

On 1 December 1992 Royal Mail Wisbech produced special covers commemorating the Official Opening of their new Delivery Office, with an oval postmark showing a monument and the wording 'Royal Mail Wisbech' plus the date. The postmark was not announced and was probably not used postally, thus it is not given a numbered entry in these listings.

(in addition to the above counter date-stamps in use in the Olympic/Paralympic Park, plus 18318, also used were four dated cachets, oval in shape, 63mm wide. These read, respectively, 'XXX Olympiad London 2012 Olympic Village' and 'Olympic Games', and 'XIV Paralympics London 2012 Paralympic Village' and 'Paralympic Games'. 'London 2012' was placed below the variable date in each case on the latter versions, rather than above. An additional Paralympics cachet is known with the '5 rings' version of the Olympic logo included in error. The cachets were mostly applied in violet ink, but occasionally in black, on both mail and philatelic items. Though not intended for cancelling stamps, this occurred in some cases)

6 Philatelic Handstamps

Philatelic handstamps are ongoing postmarks referring to various towns and tourist locations, but the actual handstamps are used at the Special Handstamp Centres. The towns are spread geographically from Edinburgh and Belfast to Plymouth. There are also 'tourist handstamps' at Giant's Causeway and Britain's most northerly post office, the latter being applied at the post office itself or at the Special Handstamp Centre, as at 2014. The full list is shown in ongoing issues of Royal Mail's British Postmark Bulletin. They have largely been in use uninterrupted for nearly twenty years.

These provide a valuable facility for collectors, who can submit items for postmarking for any of the towns on any date. Covers or postcards can be sent in 'on the day' (obviously for a Sunday or Bank Holiday, such as Christmas Day, they have to be sent in before the required postmark date) though 1st class postage must be affixed to each item. Sometimes they can be handed in at the post office of the town of posting, though 'philatelic counters' do not have dedicated staff with identifiable counter positions as they once did; one has to ask! So, in London, for example, one can hand in at Trafalgar Square or 'City of London' post offices items for the London philatelic handstamps (such as 'Big Ben', 'Buckingham Palace', 'Tower Hill', 'St Paul's' or 'Nelson's column' designs). However, one has to request clearly what is required, as these post offices will forward the items to Mount Pleasant Special Handstamp Centre for postmarking.

Full details of the postmarks in use as at 2004 were shown in Volume 4, and here we provide 'update' information to bring the listing up to date at 2014.

AMENDMENTS TO VOLUME 4 LISTINGS ARE AS FOLLOWS:

- Page 309 'MEET YOUR POST OFFICE' – Aldershot also recorded dated Sep 1986
- Ph.25 BLACKPOOL – alternative inscription seen used 1990
- Ph.61 WINDSOR – fixed-date Pad version used on the following occasions (possibly others also):
 7.7.93 (Ceremony of the Order of the Garter)
 28.2.96 (Princess Diana's divorce agreement)
 28.8.96 (Princess Diana's decree absolute granted)
 12.2.97 (Hong Kong stamp exhibition)
 and for each stamp issue day from 1994. Withdrawn 17.3.97, replaced by Ph.178
- Ph.100 LONDON SW1 – withdrawn 17.3.97, replaced by Ph.164 (correction)
- Ph.166 MANCHESTER – fixed-date version with the date shown as '6th March 2002' used on that date (Manchester United Smilers stamps – issue date of the first 'commercial' Smilers)
- Ph.178 WINDSOR – fixed date Pad version also used 18.3.97 and on later stamp issue days to approx June 2004 (when the South East SHC closed, with postmarking duties transferred to London SHC), also on 15.2.02 (funeral of HRH Princess Margaret), 30.3.02 and 9.4.02 (HM The Queen Mother's death and funeral respectively), then again on 8 & 9.4.05 (planned and actual dates of marriage of HRH Prince Charles and Mrs Parker-Bowles – for these two dates Pad foils were produced from strikes of the variable date handstamp at London SHC)

THE FOLLOWING ARE NEW ENTRIES SINCE THE PUBLICATION OF VOLUME 4

- Ph.184 THE BRITISH/POSTAL/MUSEUM/ & ARCHIVE/LONDON WC1X
Introduced 6.5.05 UFN. 35mm square, with date offset below.
- Ph.185 THE MOUNT/LONDON EC1 (Royal Mail Mount Pleasant)
